SPECIFICATIONS

Consultancy for IGBT based Medium voltage drives

The Power Electronics Systems Laboratory of Corporate R&D Division of BHEL at Hyderabad is engaged in the development of AC/DC Drive systems and Power Electronic Equipment for FACTS.

A project has been initiated for the development of 1800 KW Medium Voltage drive for ID Fan application using IGBT based voltage source inverter. The proposed drive will be tested on an available 6.6 kV, 2.6 MW induction motor drive at BHEL R&D division. After testing at R&D, the drive shall be commissioned at a power station and field trials shall be conducted by BHEL for about 6 months.

With a view to combine the academic knowledge of premier educational institutes and the industrial experience of BHEL, it is proposed to have a technical consultancy from a premier institute for the development and successful completion of the project. The duration of consultancy shall be for 15 months or till the successful completion of field trials, whichever is later.

The following areas have been proposed for the technical consultancy. To establish the control philosophy, control hardware and software, it is suggested that the Consultant may assemble a scaled down model of the rating of about 5 KW, with the same technical specifications as that of the main drive, at his premises. The total activities and the proposed details on the mode of payments during the consultancy are divided into 6 phases which are explained.

Phase-1:

The details of activities to be carried out jointly by the Consultant and BHEL during Phase-1 of the project relate to the overall system design, finalization of specifications of main power equipment required for the final 1.8 MW drive prototype. The primary responsibility of these activities is with BHEL. The specifications of the following equipment along shall be prepared.

- Input VCB
- Input Filter (if required)
- Input Transformer
- Input rectifiers
- Dc link filter
- Braking chopper circuit
- IGBT inverter
- Output Filter
- Output transformer
- Output switchgear

A detailed report on the activities of Phase-1 shall be submitted by the consultant, and after acceptance of the report by BHEL, phase-1 of the project is treated as completed. The total duration of the Phase-1 of the project shall be 2 months from the start of consultancy.

Phase 2:

Phase-2 of the project covers modeling and simulation studies on the system and the details of activities proposed under this phase are indicated below.

- Detailed modeling and performance prediction for the actual 1.8 MW drive prototype

- Study of Common mode coupling in IGBT based MV Drives
(Effects on Input and output transformer insulation levels & calculation of these levels).
- Study of variation of neutral point (mid point of Capacitor in DC Link) voltages and effect on MV Drive output Voltages / Currents and their effect on Motors effecting the Harmonics and Harmonic torques on the motor shafts.
- Study of effects of 3 level inverters on standard Induction motors. Critically with respect to Losses in motors and Harmonics
- Design of the output AC filter
- Selection criteria for variable frequency, variable voltage transformer
- Study of effects of variations of the control parameters on the drive system

- Heat loss calculations and drive efficiency estimation
- Reliability studies for the drive system
- Detailing of tests to be carried out on control and power modules at Electronics Division (EDN), BHEL,Bangalore and R&D,BHEL, Hyderabad.
- Finalizing the list of parameters to be displayed on the panel, and details of fault logging and fault data download.

A detailed technical report covering the outcome of the activities Phase-2 shall be submitted, and after acceptance of the report by BHEL, completes the phase-2 of the proposed project. The total duration of the phase-2 of project shall be 4 months from the date of start.

Phase-3:

The details of activities under Phase-3 of the project shall relate to the manufacture and testing of the scaled down model of 5kW (having the same power circuit topology of the 1.8 MW drive) at the Consultant's premises. The following activities are proposed in phase-3.

- Design report of the scaled down model.
- Performance evaluation of the drive along with input transformer, diode bridges, filters and output transformer
- Tests to be done on the scaled down model of inverter at consultant's premises and criteria for acceptance
- Total control algorithm for vector control software and coding for the prototype.
- Implementation of Sensor and sensor less vector control

A detailed report on the activities of Phase-4 of the project and acceptance by BHEL shall be the end of phase-4 of the project. The duration of phase-4 of the project shall be 8 months from the start of consultancy.

Phase 5:

Phase-5 covers the manufacture and testing of the 1.8 MW MV drive by BHEL at EDN, Bangalore and at R&D, Hyderabad. During Phase-5, the Consultant shall advise on the following aspects of the project and visit the project sites at EDN, Bangalore and R&D, Hyderabad, when requested, to solve the problems during testing, along with BHEL engineers.

- Testing of the 1.8 MW drive at EDN, BHEL Bangalore
- Testing of the drive with the available compressor load at BHEL R&D, Hyderabad
- Performance evaluation of the total drive along with the transformer, diode bridges, filters and output transformer

Phase 6:

Phase-6 of the project covers the erection, commissioning, conducting the necessary tests and proving the equipment for trouble free operation. The primary responsibility of the activities described under Phase-6 shall be with BHEL and the Consultant shall advise and help BHEL in sorting out all the technical problems that arise during the commissioning and field trials of the drive.
